

A World of Thanks

A World of Thanks...

...For traveling with compassion and care for the fragile planet we inhabit.

...For understanding that natural and cultural diversity ultimately bind us together.

...For sharing your commitment to world citizenship in the places you've been, and anticipating, with delight, the many destinations still at large.

This holiday season, in the collective spirit of global preservation, we have chosen to make donations in appreciation of our travelers, associates, and staff, to important projects dedicated to preserving and sustaining two truly special places in the world: The first seeks to secure the protection of Madagascar's highly threatened northeastern forests—home to the highest level of species diversity in the country. The second provides renewable hydraulic power to rural populations in Indonesia with the aim of reducing strain on the natural environment and providing the local citizens with stable work opportunities.

A WORLD of THANKS

“Going from – toward; it is the history of every one of us.” ~Henry David Thoreau

It's almost impossible to express the scope of our gratitude here within the borders of this small postcard. Our multi-faceted “thank you” reaches far beyond your choice of travel companies. It's for being passionate about life and wanting to witness it in its myriad forms, and experience it with all five senses. It's for your inquisitive search into who you are—or might be—in the context of the miraculous natural world that surrounds us. And it's for understanding that crossing borders is our ultimate hope of dissolving them.

Now, enveloped in this holiday season of light and hope, we count our blessings and reflect on a year's worth of amazing new experiences and friendships made in places near and far. And, with great anticipation, we look ahead to where 2006 will take us.

For those of you intrigued by circumnavigations, we'll run circles around New Guinea, Baffin Island, the Black Sea, and South Georgia Island. We'll show you the last true wild places in Alaska, Greenland, and the British Isles. And we'll marvel at the cultural legacies of Libya, Cambodia, Vietnam, and Malaysia.

As we sail across distant seas, into the heart of ancient civilizations, and to tiny outposts on the map, we know we'll find you there, in the thick of adventure—amazed, awed, humbled, inspired.

Our thank you, most of all then, is for giving us at Zegrahm and Eco Expeditions the privilege of erasing the borders between you and the wonders of our planet.
